ABOUT THE IDAHO PANHANDLE NATIONAL FOREST

The Idaho Panhandle National Forests comprise about 2.5 million acres of public lands which lie within "the panhandle" of north Idaho and extend into eastern Washington and western Montana.

Home to a variety of vegetation and wildlife, including moose, grizzly bears, and wolves, the Idaho Panhandle is a beautiful forest and an incredibly fulfilling place to work and explore. There are vast amounts of recreational opportunities on the IPNF's to enjoy, including floating rivers, hiking, mountain biking, fishing, and cross-country skiing.

The forest prioritizes landscape restoration in the form of timber harvests and fuels management activities in order to restore historic vegetation compositions, mitigate risks of wildfire, and provide economic support to the local communities. In addition to these activities, the Idaho Panhandle also accomplishes a variety of aquatic habitat improvements and restoration including road decommissioning, improving aquatic organism passage, and habitat restoration.
